

Solution IM 3.7

- (a) Predetermined machine hour rate =  $\frac{\text{machine department overheads (£1 080 000)}}{\text{machine hours (80 000)}}$
- Machining department = £13.50 per machine hour
 Hand finishing department = £760 000/120 000 labour hours
 = £6.33 per labour hour
- (b) (i)
- |                             | Machine department(£) |                 | Hand finishing department(£) |
|-----------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------|----------------------------------|
| Overhead incurred           | 84 500                    |                 | 67 100                           |
| Overhead absorbed           | 81 000                    | (6000 × £13.50) | 60 800                           |
|                             |                           |                 | (9600 × £6.33)                   |
| Under recovery of overheads | 3 500              |                 | 6 300                     |
- (ii) Overheads that are apportioned to cost centres tend to be on an arbitrary basis and are unlikely to be controllable by the cost centre manager. Managers should be held accountable for only those overheads that they can control. See 'Guidelines for applying the controllability principle' in Chapter 16 for a more detailed discussion of controllable and non-controllable costs.
- (c) Absorption costing is used by companies to ensure that all products/services bear an equitable share of company overheads. The Statement of Standard Accounting Practice (SSAP 9) requires that stocks should be valued at full production cost. Therefore absorption costing is required to allocate overheads to products in order to meet financial accounting requirements.

Solution IM 3.8

- (a) In order to ascertain the actual overhead traced to the production departments, it is necessary to allocate the service department overheads to the filling and sealing departments:

	Filling (£)	Sealing (£)	Maintenance (£)	Canteen (£)
Allocated	74 260	38 115	25 050	24 375
Reallocation of:
Canteen	14 625 (60%)	7 800 (32%)	1 950 (8%)	(24 375)
Maintenance	18 900 (70%)	7 290 (27%)	(27 000)	810 (3%)
Canteen	486 (60%)	259 (32%)	65 (8%)	(810)
Maintenance	47 (70/97)	18 (27/97)	–	–
	108 318	53 482

Predetermined overhead rates:

	Filling (£)	Sealing (£)
Budgeted overheads	110 040	53 300
Budgeted direct labour hours	13 100	10 250
Direct labour hour overhead rate	8.40	5.20
Overhead incurred	108 318	53 482
Overhead allocated (£5.20)	107 688	(12 820 × £8.40) 52 390
(Under)/over recovery	(630)	(1 092)
