Disasters An Analysis Of Natural And Human Induced Hazards:

Disasters Charles H. V. Ebert, 2000 , Natural Disaster Hotspots Case Studies Margaret Arnold, 2006-01-01

These case studies complement the earlier groundbreaking work of Natural Disaster Hotspots A Global Risk Analysis published in April 2005. Three case studies address specific hazards: landslides, storm surges, and drought. An additional three case studies address regional multi-hazard situations in Sri Lanka, the Tana River basin in Kenya, and the city of Caracas, Venezuela. Crisis Management: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources, 2013-11-30. This book explores the latest empirical research and best real-world practices for preventing, weathering, and recovering from disasters such as earthquakes or tsunamis to nuclear disasters and cyber terrorism. Provided by publisher. Treatise on Geomorphology, 2013-02-27. The changing focus and approach of geomorphic research suggests that the time is opportune for a summary of the state of the discipline. The number of peer-reviewed papers published in geomorphic journals has grown steadily for more than two decades, and more importantly, the diversity of authors with respect to geographic location and disciplinary background (geography, geology, ecology, civil engineering, computer science, geographic information science, and others) has expanded dramatically. As more good minds are drawn to geomorphology and the breadth of the peer-reviewed literature grows, an effective summary of contemporary geomorphic knowledge becomes increasingly difficult. The fourteen volumes of this Treatise on Geomorphology will provide an important reference for users from undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic. Information on the historical development of diverse topics within geomorphology provides context for ongoing research, discussion of research strategies, equipment, and field methods. Laboratory experiments and numerical simulations reflect the multiple approaches to understanding Earth's surfaces, and summaries of outstanding research questions highlight future challenges and suggest productive new avenues for research. Our future ability to adapt to geomorphic changes in the critical zone very much hinges upon how well landform scientists comprehend the dynamics of Earth's diverse surfaces. This Treatise on Geomorphology provides a useful synthesis of the state of the discipline as well as highlighting productive research directions that educators and students, researchers will find useful. Geomorphology has advanced greatly in the last 10 years to become a very interdisciplinary field. Undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic will find the answers they need in this broad reference work, which has been designed and written to accommodate their diverse backgrounds and levels of understanding. Editor in Chief Prof. J. F. Shroder of the University of Nebraska at Omaha is past president of the Quaternary Geology section of the Geological Society of America and present Trustee of the GSA Foundation, while being well respected in the geomorphology research community and having won numerous awards in the field. A host of noted international geomorphologists have contributed state-of-the-art chapters to the work Readers can be guaranteed that every chapter in this extensive work has been critically reviewed for consistency and accuracy by the World expert Volume Editors and by the Editor in Chief himself No other reference work exists in the area of Geomorphology that offers the breadth and depth of information contained in this 14 volume masterpiece From the foundations and history of geomorphology through to geomorphological innovations and computer modelling and the past and future states of landform science no stone has been left unturned

Perception of Human-Induced Environmental Challenges in the Birim Central Municipality, Ghana Clarke Owusu, 2019-01-25 Master s Thesis from the year 2015 in the subject Environmental Sciences grade language English abstract The overall objective of the study was to assess the respondents perception of human induced environmental challenges in the municipality The specific objectives of the study were to determine the association between respondents socio demographic characteristics and their environmental perceptions or concerns assess the respondents knowledge of environmental problems in the municipality examine the respondents perception on the causes of the environmental problems and examine the respondents views on improving upon the quality of their environment The effects of human activities on the environment are evident in the changes to the functioning of the ecosystems earth s oceans atmosphere freshwater systems and land surfaces resulting in environmental challenges including freshwater shortages climate change lost of biodiversity and exhaustion of fisheries Birim Central Municipality is endowed with abundant natural resources such as diamond and gold deposits forest fertile soil and many water bodies which contribute to the socio economic development of the municipality and the country as a whole In spite of the continuous exploitation of these natural resources to meet the legitimate socio economic aspirations of the people adequate care has not often been taken to guard against the depletion and mismanagement of the resources in the municipality This attitude has led to increase in human induced environmental challenges such as land degradation water and air pollution in the municipality Moreover there seem to be little or no effort by the residents in addressing the overexploitation of such resources and its impacts on the environment as well as on the people The issue of deforestation in Birim Central Municipality has become a serious concern for the Municipal Assembly However efforts by the Assembly to clump down on indiscriminate activities of the sawmill industries charcoal burners farmers and mining companies on the forest have not recorded much success For example the Forestry Commission Division of the Assembly made an attempt to register and to be able to monitor and control the activities of the chainsaw operators but only few were registered In addition to the depletion of the forest the future source of livelihood of many of the people which depends upon the natural environment will be severely affected

Disaster Management in Sub-Saharan Africa Roland Azibo Balgah, Jude Ndzifon Kimengsi, 2022-04-21 A combined analysis of all the chapters provides an interesting summary and information for creating disaster management policies for improved results in SSA With an extensive glossary of terms and index the book lends itself to specialized academics and students but also to disaster management policy makers and practitioners
