Reformation and the Practice of Toleration Benjamin J. Kaplan, 2019-09-16 The Dutch Republic was the most religiously diverse land in early modern Europe gaining an international reputation for toleration In Reformation and the Practice of Toleration Benjamin Kaplan explains why the Protestant Reformation had this outcome in the Netherlands and how people of different faiths managed subsequently to live together peacefully Bringing together fourteen essays by the author the book examines the opposition of so called Libertines to the aspirations of Calvinist reformers for uniformity and discipline It analyzes the practical arrangements by which multiple religious groups were accommodated It traces the dynamics of religious life in Utrecht and other mixed communities And it explores the relationships that developed between people of different faiths especially in mixed marriages

The Family of Love 1540-1660 Alastair Hamilton, 2025-01-01 Over forty years after its original publication Alastair Hamilton has revised and updated his comprehensive study of the heterodox movement known as the Family of Love Part of the Radical Reformation it has been a source of fascination to scholars earning a reputation for antinomianism alongside its association with some of the greatest humanists of the late sixteenth century They include the philosopher and philologist Justus Lipsius and the greatest typographer of his day Christophe Plantin Hamilton studies the careers and the thought of the two main ideologists of the movement and provides a lucid analysis of the ramifications of the Family of Love not only in the Low Countries but also in France Germany and England Extensively researched Hamilton's detailed study was the first to connect the Family of Love in England with the movement on the continent His book remains a definitive but readable history of a neglected yet significant moment in the history of the Radical Reformation in Europe
