Gallagher, James C. Kaufman, 2004-12-27 Females consistently score lower than males on standardized tests of mathematics yet no such differences exist in the classroom These differences are not trivial nor are they insignificant Test scores help determine entrance to college and graduate school and therefore by extension a person's job and future success If females receive lower test scores then they also receive fewer opportunities Why does this discrepancy exist This book presents a series of papers that address these issues by integrating the latest research findings and theories Authors such as Diane Halpern Jacquelynne Eccles Beth Casey Ronald Nuttal James Byrnes and Frank Pajares tackle these questions from a variety of perspectives Many different branches of psychology are represented including cognitive social personality self oriented and psychobiological The editors then present an integrative chapter that discusses the ideas presented and other areas that the field should explore

Handbook of Gender Research in Psychology Joan C. Chrisler, Donald R. McCreary, 2010-03-12 Donald R McCreary and Joan C Chrisler The Development of Gender Studies in Psychology Studies of sex differences are as old as the eld of psychology and they have been conducted in every sub eld of the discipline There are probably many reasons for the popularity of these studies but three reasons seem to be most prominent First social psychological studies of person perception show that sex is especially salient in social groups It is the rst thing people notice about others and it is one of the things we remember best Fiske Haslam Stangor Lynch Duan Glass 1992 For example people may not remember who uttered a witty remark but they are likely to remember whether the quip came from a woman or a man Second many people hold rm beliefs that aspects of physiology suit men and women for particular social roles Men's greater upper body strength makes them better candidates for manual labor and their greater height gives the impression that they would make good leaders i e people we look up to Women's reproductive capacity and the caretaking tasks e g breastfeeding baby minding that accompany it make them seem suitable for other roles that require gentleness and nurturance Third the logic that underlies hypothesis testing in the sciences is focused on difference Researchers design their studies with the hope that they can reject the null hypothesis that experimental groups do not differ
