Creating a Transnational Space in the First Year Writing Classroom W. Ordeman, 2021-05-04 During the first twenty years of the new millennium many scholars turned their attention to translingualism, an idea that focuses on the merging of language in distinct social and spatial contexts to serve unique, mutually constitutive and temporal purposes. This volume joins the more recent shift in pedagogical studies towards an altogether distinct phenomenon, transnationalism. By developing a framework for transnational pedagogical practice, this volume demonstrates the exclusive opportunities afforded to freshmen writers who write in transnational spaces that act as points of fusion for several cultural, linguistic and national identities. With reference to recent works on translingualism and transnationalism, this volume is an attempt to conceptualize effective writing pedagogy in freshman writing courses which are becoming more and more transnational. It also provides educators and first year writing administrators with practical pedagogical tools to help them use their transnational spaces as a means of achieving their desired learning outcomes, as well as teaching students threshold concepts of composition studies. This volume will be particularly useful for first year writing faculty at colleges and universities, as well as writing program administrators, to create a more effective curriculum that addresses these needs in classroom settings. All scholars with a doctorate in Rhetoric and Composition, English as a Second Language, Translation Studies, to name a few, will also find this a valuable resource.

Development of Writing Skills in Children in Diverse Cultural Contexts Alina Galvão Spinillo, Carmen Sotomayor, 2023-06-16 This book brings together multiple theoretical perspectives and disciplinary approaches to study the acquisition and development of written language by children, as well as the implications for teaching and learning of writing practices in a variety of languages and cultural contexts. Chapters in this contributed volume present both theoretical contributions and results of research carried out with students and teachers from 11 countries: Belgium, Brazil, Chile, Israel, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, UK and USA, who speak seven different languages: Portuguese, Spanish, English, Italian, French, Dutch and Hebrew. By bringing together research developed in diverse cultural contexts, it enriches the debates in the interdisciplinary field of writing.

studies by analyzing a wide range of topics at the interface between research and educational implications for the teaching and learning of writing by children. The book consists of five parts, each one addressing a specific set of topics. Part I presents studies on topics related to written language representation systems, phonological and morphological awareness, and on the relationship between grammar and the quality of texts of different genres. Part II includes studies related to compositional processes of writing texts and the factors involved in these processes. Part III focuses on the difficulties faced by students during the acquisition and development of writing. Part IV is dedicated to chapters that discuss and compare writing practices in different social environments. Finally, chapters in part V deal with teaching and learning of writing in the school setting.
