Abstract

There is a rapid increase in adoption of mobile technology for language learning and teaching. Mobile-assisted Language Learning (MALL) provides many avenues for any learner outside the constraints of time, place and time to learn. Mobile Learning, besides the convenience, offers instant, anytime, and any-where support in mobile language learning. Moreover, apps are designed specifically for those who learn English as a second language. This paper reviews the classification of mobile apps based on the primary, secondary and tertiary learners. Moreover, various user characteristics such as comprehending an implementation, analysis, evaluation of the mobile apps for language learning. There exists a clear distinction (technology, method, theory, and pedagogical factors) that defines the current mobile apps. Since there are no designed to enhance the language skills of the learner, emphasis should be primarily made on the acquisition of language skills such as listening, speaking, reading and writing skills through mobile technology. Thus, the study shows that learning skills are better acquired through apps than that of other language skills.

INTRODUCTION

One of the most attractive technologies in mobile technology which is termed as technology (technology or education). Several users mobile devices such as mobile communication and learning. The broad use of smartphones and different communication and Wi-Fi network has increased the traditional teaching method and learning process (Khalafallah, 2018). The current range of mobile devices has led to the use of mobile applications in English Language Learning. Numerous apps are available for language learning to students through many sources for the Internet. Existing materials are for students mostly due to the portability and convenience of mobile devices.

Moreover, it helps in the classification of apps to help users to identify the right of apps and decide which one to use. There is a lack of research about which apps are good and useful for a particular learner. The research is divided into the primary, secondary and tertiary level. Apps are classified according to the prior assessment category of learners that includes children, teenager or primary school school students in the secondary level, college students and adults in tertiary level. The main objective of this study is:

To aid the learner to overcome the difficulties in learning the mobile English Learning apps.

To identify apps based on the learner level

To identify the effectiveness of existing L2APP apps through mobile technology.

THE CONCEPT OF M-Learning

In the technological era, everyone has their own handheld mobile devices. Using these devices, with many users in common, they connect with people from anywhere in the world. Interactions of time and place people and an exchange information with each other. The very term "mobile" stands for the "mobility" in the ability to move from one place to another. Mobile learning refers to the implementation of mobile devices in any form of media. The concept of mobile technology leads to the possibility and information available place is used only in the enhancement of English language learning and learning of the device is through (2018).

The main characteristics of M-learning can be the absence of any barrier to any of the device of the learner is available on the phone and time for language learning (Khalafallah, 2018). The network in the domain of mobile learning makes it easier for anyone to access to a mobile network because of the availability of new mobile devices for the student.

Generally, mobile learning can be defined as learning of the personal, portable and wireless devices such as the
