Escorial (Classic Reprint) José Ramón Mélida, 1915 Excerpt from Escorial The Escorial is built entirely of grey granite quarried at Pera lejos in the same range of mountains The ground plan is rectangular with a square addition to the East called vulgarly the handle of the gridiron supposing the rectangular part of the building subdivided by intersecting parallel lines to represent symbolically the grill on which the titular saint of the foundation suffered martyrdom The rectangle from North to South measures 206 metres 21 metres less than the great pyramid of Cheops in Egypt by 161 metres from East to West The additional building referred to contains the King's palace and the high altar of the Church whose nave aisles and porch together with the courtyard that gives access to it called Patio de 103 Reyes occupies the middle band of the rectangle from East to West Two more large courtyards or cloisters adorn the building One to the South called de los Evangelistas which pertains to the convent to the North of the palace This courtyard has been broken up in modern times into three smaller ones with a number of accessory constructions Passages running parallel to the sides of the courtyard or patio de los Reyes divide it into four lesser courts These together with the courtyards described above and other small ones bring the number of patios contained in the edifice to sixteen It has eighty six staircases twelve hundred doors and two thousand six hundred and seventy six windows one thousand two hundred and sixty two of which open on the various patios About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an Alexandridis,Lorenz Winkler-Horaček,2022-09-06 Based on two international conferences held at Cornell University and the Freie Universität of Berlin in 2010 and 2015 this volume is the first ever to explicitly address the destruction of plaster cast collections of ancient Mediterranean and Western sculpture Focusing on Europe the Americas and Japan art historians archaeologists and a literary scholar discuss how different museum and academic traditions national as well as disciplinary notions of value and authenticity or colonialism impacted the fate of collections The texts offer detailed documentation of degrees of destruction by spectacular acts of defacement demolition discarding or neglect They also shed light on the accompanying discourses regarding aesthetic ideals political ideologies educational and scholarly practices or race With destruction being understood as a critical part of reception the histories of cast collections defy the traditional homogenous narrative of rise and decline Their diverse histories provide critical evidence for rethinking the use and display of plaster cast collections in the contemporary moment Classical Guitar Music in Print Donald T.
